

Atelier Reflections

The month of September began the start of a new school year here at Wild Roots. We are so excited to share with you all of the fun, new things we have been learning. The children have been familiarizing themselves with our new Atelier and exploring all the new materials. They have been eager to take an active roll in the creative process!

This month we have been discussing the season of Autumn. We have been on a few nature walks around the school to observe the changes to our environment and to gather natural materials to use in the classroom.

When asked what colors are most predominant this time of year, "The leaves at my house turn brown and fall down." - Mason S.

"Red, orange, and pink!" - Kenleigh C.

We have been mindful to incorporate the colors of the season in our work. The children are fascinated with how nature blends in with art seamlessly. They have taken fallen tree branches and created a collaborative work, always adding new elements every day.

September has been so much fun, we cannot wait to see where the children's imaginations will take us for the month of October.
